

Exam preparation guide

No, this is not an immigration form for a green card application but it reminds me a little on it. If you answer one of the following questions with no you may run into problems with your next exam:

Check the appropriate box.

	Yes	No
Do you write an own summary of the class?	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
Do you read the textbook?	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
Do you look through the homework before the exam (in detail)?	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
Do you read your class summary before the exam?	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
Do you read carefully the examples discussed in class?	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
Do you look for typos (wrong sign +/-) in class room examples?	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
Have you memorized the most important equations of your own summary draft?	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
Have you checked your draft for typos?	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
Do you memorize and understand concepts?	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
Do you plan to sleep at least 8 hours before the exam?	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
Do you plan to start the exam preparation at least one week before the exam?	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
Do you word together with your class mates?	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>

...

By the way:

We all tend to study what we already know.

But – this does not really help.

Focus on topics you could not understand so well, so far.

Look it up again and/or ask.